

Jean Monnet module of Population and human capital policy in the European Union

Call for course proposals

The Jean Monnet module of Population and human capital policy in the European Union at Universitatea Alexandru Ioan Cuza din Iasi (www.fssp.uaic.ro/monnet) invites colleagues to submit proposals for short teaching modules (four hours each) to be integrated in the activities of the Jean Monnet module.

Objectives

The objectives of this call are the following:

- support for young researchers (i.e. who have obtained a PhD degree in the last five years) and university teachers who want to carry out research and teaching on EU subjects;
- increased opportunities for academic staff in terms of professional and career development;
- to create interest in the EU and constitute the basis for a future pole of European knowledge.

Requirements of the teaching proposals

The teaching proposals shall consist of four hours of teaching, of which two hours of lectures and two hours of seminars. Teaching shall be on any aspect related to population and human capital policy in the European Union, which includes a wide variety of topics (e.g. migration policy in the EU, demography and elections in the EU, demography of religion in the EU, demography and security in Europe, EU social policies, EU education policies...).

Requirements of the proposing teachers

The proposing teachers must have a PhD or equivalent and show evidence of experience/interest in teaching and research on EU-related subjects.

Selection criteria

There shall be up to a maximum of seven teaching blocks financed by this call per academic year. The selection criteria shall be the following:
